Thought for the week – How can you show kindness this week?

HEADLINE NEWS

News Headlines!

- This week, our school was delighted to welcome award-winning author Abiola Bello, whose energetic and inspiring visit left pupils buzzing with excitement about reading and creative writing. Abiola spoke passionately about her journey into publishing, the importance of diverse stories, and how young writers can find their own voice. Pupils enjoyed hearing extracts from her books, asking thoughtful questions about her characters and writing process, and even picking up a few professional tips for crafting brilliant stories of their own. It was a wonderful opportunity for our pupils to meet a real author and see firsthand how ideas can grow into books that readers love.
- Alongside this, our classes took part in Internet Safety Workshops as part of our ongoing commitment to promoting safe, responsible and confident digital citizens. The workshops covered key topics such as recognising online risks, protecting personal information, responding to cyberbullying, and making positive choices in digital spaces. Pupils engaged in practical scenarios and discussions that helped them think critically about how to stay safe online while still enjoying the many benefits technology offers.
- Both events made for an enriching and memorable week, reinforcing our school's dedication to creativity, literacy and digital wellbeing.
- Our stars of the week this week have all been chosen for being great scientists this week.
